FRIENDS

I hope the day will be a lighter highway, for friends are found on every road.
Can you ever think of any better way for the lost and weary travellers to go?
Making friends for the world to see,
let the people know you got what you need.
With a friend at hand you will see the light,
if your friends are there then everything's all right.

It seems to me a crime that we should age,
these fragile times should never slip us by.
A time you never can or shall erase as friends together watch their childhood fly.
Making friends for the world to see,
let the people know you got what you need.
With a friend at hand you will see the light,
if your friends are there then everything's all right.

Mr. Amos F. Taylor

In Memoriam:

There has never been anyone more deserving in any sport on the local scene over the years than this gentle giant of a man. He was a good man, a nice guy, you might say. He certainly wasn't a hardnosed advisor who would go to any extreme to win. Amos Taylor never played or coached the game that way.

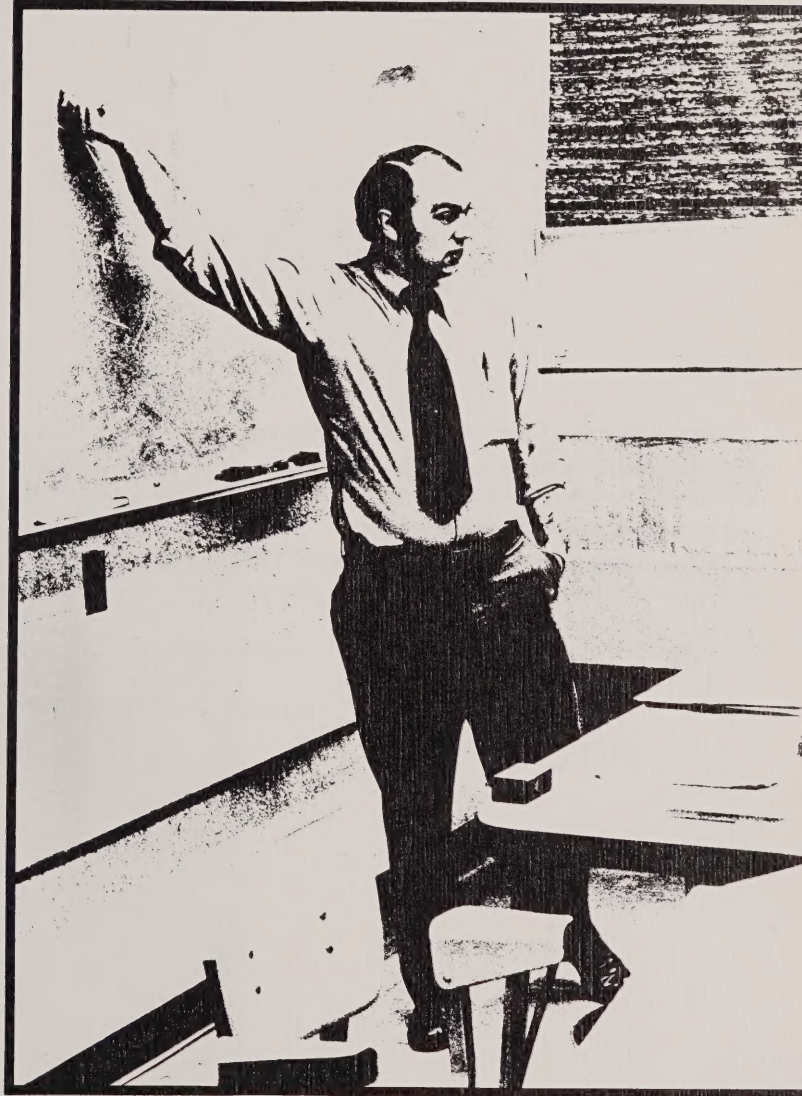

An outstanding football player in his day at New Bedford High School, Brown University, and with the Murphy Club, he later coached at Provincetown High School and New Bedford High.

Mr. Taylor came to D-R in September of 1969. He remained here as a math teacher until his illness in October of 1973. He will long be remembered by his fellow faculty members and by his many students for his unlimited knowledge of trivia, especially in the field of sports.

Tall in life, taller still in death, his memory is monumental.

Before School . . .

. . . all is quiet. Except for the occasional student who has yet to awake from his seventh period the day before, classrooms are empty. A custodian shuffles through the halls, moaning softly as he considers all the "challenging" tasks awaiting him. Even Blue slumbers peacefully on top of Mr. Sawyers desk.

Suddenly, a rumbling is heard in the distance. Cars begin to screech around the school as teachers race students for the best parking spots. Blue awakens and trots out of the front office, careful not to drop any traces of the day-old Farmer Jones Special stuck to his coat.

The rumbling grows as the first bus cuts through the early morning gloom, bringing with it its precious cargo of forty smiling faces. As the students vivaciously parade into the foyer, Blue is kindly but firmly booted out the cafeteria door. Another day at D-R has begun.

During School

After the usual five-times-around-the-school morning walk, students rush to their homerooms before the 7:40 bell. The voice of the senior class president comes over the P.A., followed by the familiar, "What did he say?" A bus arrives just late enough to mess up attendance, and the office spends most of the morning writing passes. Finally, first period begins and students settle in their classes.

It is not long before a teacher is banging his head against the wall, hopelessly pleading, "Are you going to wake up today? Please?"

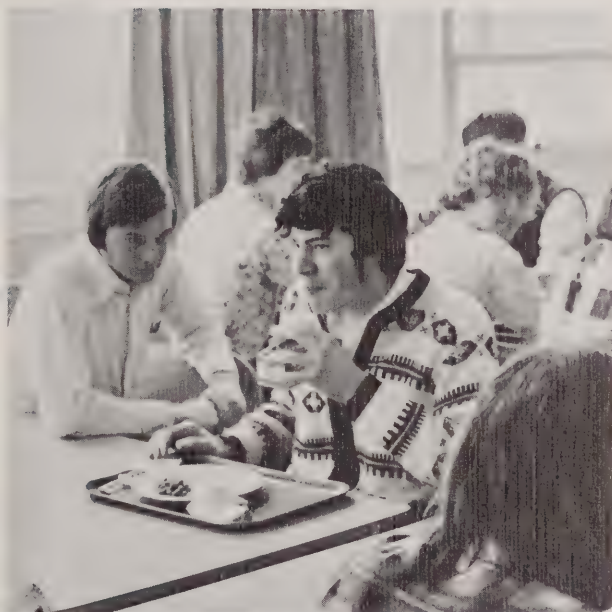

Study hall proctors pass out blankets and pillows to help students settle down for their long 45 minute nap. Blue joins the crowd by finding a sunny spot in the foyer and drowsily stretching out.

By third period all are in anticipation of lunch (after all, breakfast WAS three hours ago!). As the magic hour approaches, activity becomes more obvious. Students who have not moved all morning suddenly show signs of life — a twitch, a snore, maybe even breathing. And when fifth period finally arrives, they (even) manage to wake up!

The lunchroom is crowded — lines stretched down B corridor, out the front door, and twice around the tennis courts. By the time last lunch arrives, there is little left to eat except yesterday's scrumptious chow mein and some cracked and peeling peanut butter fudge.

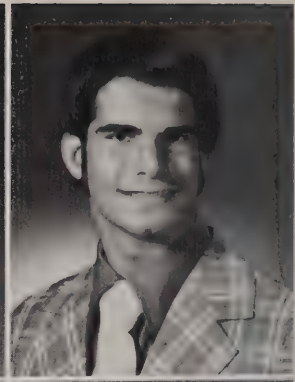

That's the most fascinating milk I've ever seen in my life.

The work is easy — it's turning the pages that's tough.

Morning? Already?

You take my picture and you'll lose that finger!

After lunch the school picks up it's previous brisk pace. Seniors who innocently scheduled study halls for the end of the day jump into their cars and head for home. By 1:50 and the close-of-school announcements, students have just about caught up with all the sleep they missed the night before and are ready for an afternoon of vigorous after-school activities.

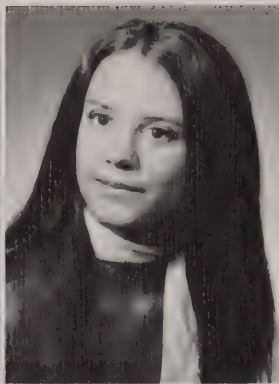

Don't stare at me like that — my nylons have runs in them!

After School

D-R features many after-school activities: from math league and chess club to flirting with the opposite sex (this organization has an understandably large membership). At the close of school, students gather in various corners of the building. Some avoid strict organization and choose instead to attend their own personal club ("roaming the halls" with members known as the "drifties").

The locker rooms buzz with activity as athletes dress for their afternoon sports. The foyer becomes a trap for those careless enough to venture into it — a cheerleader's misplaced flip could turn into a well-placed flying kick.

The cafeteria, proposed social center, occasionally becomes a chaotic Grand Central Station.

Take my picture and you get these right in the eyes.

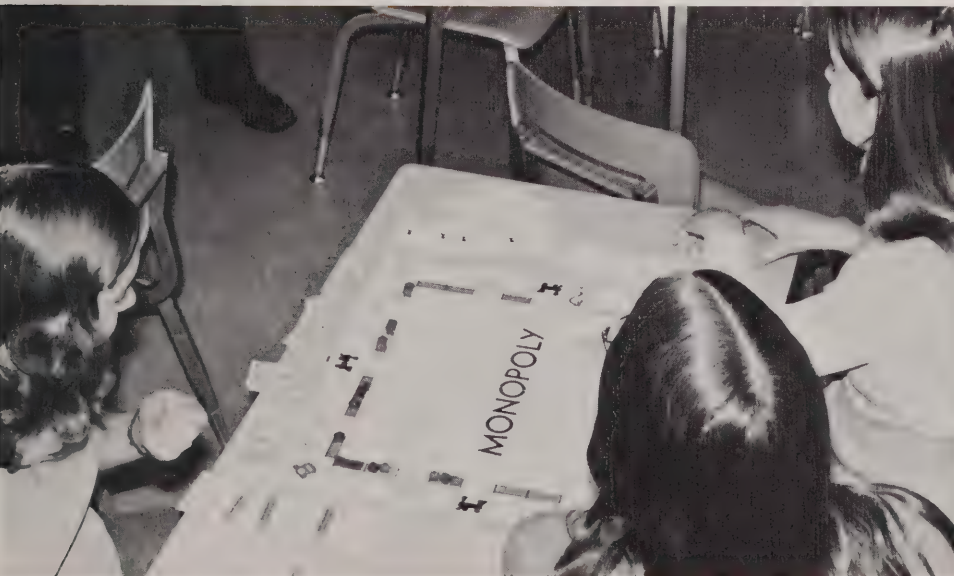

Except for a few hearty souls, the 3:30 bus ends the day for D-R students. The custodians take a quick check: all the doors are on their hinges, all windows intact, all walls still standing. With a happy smile they turn out the lights and leave for home.

This is D-R's yearbook staff signing off. Tune in next year for the continuing story of "The Young and the Restless."

Thanksgiving Pep Rally

It took balloons to fill out the curves and plenty of make-up to cover embarrassed faces, but when it was all over, the senior class boys, along with a female football squad, the band, and the regular football team had drummed up plenty of pre-Thanksgiving excitement, in the Senior Class Pep Rally. Seekonk got the brunt end of the fun, and hopefully would do just as well on the field the next day. As everyone "expected," the mighty senior class was voted school "Spirit Winners." If the attitude was contagious, the Warriors wouldn't stand a chance the next day.

It was five years coming, but the 21-7 Thanksgiving Day Victory over archrival Seekonk was still just as sweet. Pete Duffy took Most Valuable Player honors as he led the fired up Falcons to their bone-crunching victory. For the first time in a half a decade, Dighton and Rehoboth fans didn't need a turkey dinner to feel satisfied.

Calendar of Events 1974-75

by Eric Schultz

SEPT. 4: After a long, hard season of summer work, D-R students returned to the easy life of school and homework. Those nine month vacations sure feel good between summer jobs.

SEPT. 6: The awards assembly inspired students to work hard so that next year THEY can be the ones to win an award. The inspiration lasted all of two hours.

SEPT. 19: Led by Mr. Wilkinson and president Frank Westcott, the senior class spent the meeting finding out just how broke the treasury was. Senior boys turned a shade of blue when told that current price on prom tickets was $20.00.

SEPT. 21: D-R varsity football team lost to a strong Case High defense, 21-0. The weather matched the loss, and loyal fans spent the better part of Sunday wringing out underclothes.

SEPT. 27: A pep rally (minus the pep) released everyone from last period class.

SEPT. 28: A fired up D-R team failed to get their offense moving for a second week, losing to a quick and deceptive Bishop Feehan team, 22-0. At least the weather was nice.

OCT. 2: The senior class, finally getting the summer rust out of its joints, finalized plans for a car wash, bake sale, Fall Activities Dance, Sadies, and prom.

OCT. 3: The school went political, with students touring classrooms in search of support in Student Government Elections.

OCT. 4: MY BIRTHDAY!

OCT. 5: A blocked field goal in the last minute preserved a 0-0 tie against Dennis-Yarmouth. The buses gave band director Mr. Otto a subtle hint by leaving him at D-Y. Walking, it should take him three weeks to get home.

OCT. 6: Mr. Otto grabs a ride with a passing bandwagon (take the "A" train?)

OCT. 7: The never-before-published-in-a-hard-cover-form, world's greatest, once in a lifetime 1975 yearbooks went on sale.

OCT. 12: D-R inspired by the newly unveiled scoreboard, went on to defeat the Old Rochester Bulldogs 16-12.

OCT. 18: The punch could have used a few additional pints of this and that, but otherwise the Senior class's Fall Activities Dance proved an incredible success. "Rare Appearance" supplied chaperones with engraved ear plugs.

OCT. 21: D-R walked over the doormats of the league, Diman, 28-0.

OCT. 30: A senior class meeting really got the Sadies rolling. Petunia Pumpkinpatch was on hand to start writing those horrible morning announcements that the student body has so come to hate.

NOV. 2: D-R, trailing for three periods, came from behind to beat a big Fairhaven team 18-14. The school bands had it out across the field . . .

NOV. 9: Norton controlled the entire game and trampled a hapless Falcon team 20-6. Even the band lost.

NOV. 16: A fantastic D-R defense held unbeaten New Bedford

Voke to just eight points, but the offense refused to roll again, and

D-R went down 8-0.

NOV. 22: At long last the Sadies! The band was super and the turnout was great. The parties afterward were okay too.

NOV. 26: Seekonk and D-R students had a small confrontation in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day game. A snowball, an egg, and a little soap and water in the morning.

NOV. 27: The mighty senior class reigned as spirit winners at the wonderful, fantastic, supergreat Senior Pep Rally. Also, the day that strikes fear in the hearts of all teachers — Picture Day — when students can legitimately do something they've been doing all year — skip class.

NOV. 28: Superfired D-R demolished Seekonk 21-7 for the first time in five years! The turkey never tasted better.

DEC. 2: The senior class officers continued to work on the prom . . . and work . . . and work . . . and work . . .

DEC. 8: Jennifer Ingram became the 1975 D.A.R. recipient.

DEC. 9: The senior class began voting on superlatives, and when the week was over there were some awfully surprised seniors. (Who? Me? My parents will kill me!)

DEC. 18: The D-R varsity basketball team opened up against a powerful Dartmouth team, keeping things close until the final quarter, but finally bowing 61-46.

DEC. 19: The music department presented the Winter Concert, highlighted by a Christmas medley combining the chorus and the band. Mr. Otto and Mr. Wilkinson agreed on the music because Mr. Otto is bigger, but Mr. Wilkinson is sneakier. Anyway, everything went off without a hitch.

DEC. 20: The Falcons picked up their first win, besting Somerset 62-56. In a morning pep rally Jeff Munsell courteously sprouted white whiskers, grabbed a sack of candy from under his bed, and dressed up as Santa Claus. Ho ho, ho . . .

Also that night, the junior class presented a well attended, successful Christmas dance. "Breakwater" played, and even the punch was good.

DEC. 23: Vacation began! Also, the Case High Cardinals fell victim to a balanced Falcon attack 69-55.

DEC. 26: Westport was subject to a 1st quarter onslaught that gave the Falcons a 71-64 win. The NHS soda machine sounded more like a still, and there were some at the game in the ripe condition to believe that it WAS a still. Dream on.

DEC. 27: D-R lost in a close contest 66-62 to Division II Bishop Feehan.

DEC. 29: The Falcon hockey team finished fourth out of sixteen teams in the Silver City Hockey Tournament.

JAN. 3: D-R Opened its Division III season with a 75-71 loss to Old Rochester.

JAN. 7: The Bourne Canalmen are nipped by one point, 63-62.

JAN. 10: In a long, long bus ride, D-R beat Dennis Yarmouth 58-49.

JAN. 13: Much to everyone's dismay, arena scheduling began.

JAN. 14: Riot and all, D-R lost to Seekonk.

JAN. 17: Defeated by Coyle-Cassidy 61-54, all hopes for the division vanish. Also, D-R hockey opened its season with a resounding 10-1 loss to Bishop Connolly.

JAN. 22: Students began doing strange things (like homework) in preparation for five days of mid-years.

JAN. 30: The start of the second semester — new classes, new teachers, but the same old grades.

JAN. 31: The end of a super week — midy-years, a snowstorm, and a bomb scare.

FEB. 7 and 8: Sue Evans, Brian Tobin, and Larry Rose starred in "Our Town," the year's first major theater production.

FEB. 17-21: What? Vacation? It was just Christmas!

FEB. 21: The hoop team finished up its season with a dismal ten point loss to Westport.

FEB. 24: The hockey team beat the Bristol Aggies in their season finale, 5-1.

FEB. 27: The first semester awards were handed out during a senior class meeting. Senior boys died for a second time when told that prom tickets were still $20.00 — and would stay that way.

MARCH 15: The D-R girls gym team took it all in a home invitational. A large crowd showed up — D-R is finally getting some culture! Also, the New England Patriots invaded the gym and whipped the faculty. The game was tremendous, but the gym resembled an overpacked can of sardines.

MARCH 17: Spring sports started, and everyone was ready to pull off the championships that slipped by the first time around.

MARCH 21: The sophomore class sponsored a well attended Spring Dance that featured Mynx. Again, the punch was palatable.

APRIL 7: An extra day off, but at the wrong time. It was too late to go skating and too early to go to the beach.

APRIL 8: The Falcon baseball team opened its schedule with a surprise upset over league favorite Coyle. Also, affectionately known as senior self-destruction, self-dependency began, much to the joy of all seniors who never want to sit through another class again.

APRIL 10: Although attendance was slightly down, the cafeteria staff and student government picked up some scholarship money at the Ham and Bean Supper. It saved many D-R students the usual pile of dirty after-dinner dishes. Also, the boys' track team opened its Division II season with a win over the Coyle runners.

APRIL 11: Rival Seekonk fell to Falcon hitting 6-4.

APRIL 12 and 13: The school reached out to the community via the Citizen's Scholarship Fund, and again was not disappointed. Team captains Donna Costa, Joan LaFrance, and Sue Tansey took honors for the most money collected.

APRIL 15: D-R upped its record to 3-0 with a 4-3 squeaker over Connolly.

APRIL 16: For the first time all year the seniors went into bondage at the Senior Slave Auction. Underclassmen had their laughs for three days, but seniors had the last laughs as their treasury bulged.

APRIL 17: Seven members of the NHS, along with advisor Mr. Frates, attended a seminar at North Attleboro High School to discuss each other's society and pass on suggestions to next year's members.

APRIL 18: The Falcons suffer their first defeat in four starts, a loss to Case.

APRIL 19 and 20: Despite the short time and last minute flurry, things went off without a hitch in the senior class play. They even caught Steve Gallant, the real murderer in Agatha Christie's MOUSETRAP.

APRIL 21-25: Vacation? The next one is for good! During the week the vocational boys took a trip to Detroit with Mr. Tobin.

APRIL 22: A small group of science students took a day trip to the Boston Museum of Science to stare at the dinosaurs and play with the computer. Also, Feehan lowered the Falcon record to 4-2 with a victory.

APRIL 23: Falcon trackmen evened things up with a 77-63 win over Feehan.

APRIL 25: Dartmouth's Neil Solomon blanked D-R for a 3-0 shut-out.

APRIL 28: High school officially ended for 100 or so seniors out on community involvement to earn a little money to return to school again in the fall.

APRIL 29: The Falcon "9" got back on the winning track by defeating Fairhaven.

MAY 7: With John Brum still recovering from a pole vault injury, the D-R trackmen suffered their first and only division loss against Taunton.

MAY 9: In Fall Fiver, Bishop Connolly upped the Falcons to the .500 mark with a 12-11 loss.

MAY 13: Neil Solomon returned to ace the Falcons and give Dartmouth its second 3-0 victory of the season.

MAY 14: The track team defeated Bishop Stang in their last division meet of the season to make them Division II co-champs along with powerful Bishop Feehan.

MAY 16: D-R pulled itself to the half-way mark after a 10-9 nail-biter over Case. Senior speech writers went before the department heads to read their words of wisdom. Also, the Spring Concert and Art Show took center stage. The band and chorus again combined for a little Americana.

MAY 20: Feehan returned for their second victory pushing D-R again below sea level.

MAY 23: D-R comes through for an 8-5 win over Fairhaven and a final 7-7 record. Also, featuring the "Fontaines," the Senior Prom went off well at the Chateau DeVille in Warwick, R.I. About 75 couples attended, and everyone who went was glad they did.

MAY 29: The annual Sports Banquet, held at the Venus DeMilo, featured the champion track team. Besides the individual MVP's John Horton also received a trophy for his Thanksgiving performance. John Brum was voted Athlete of the Year.

JUNE 3: The NHS banquet and induction: 32 new members including 10 seniors.

JUNE 5: The annual Girls Sports Banquet was held at the D-R cafeteria.

JUNE 9, 10 and 11: Graduation practice.

JUNE 11: GRADUATION!
